Who We Are

KCT is a leading provider of practical training and consulting solutions. We work with a select group of prequalified content experts who understand that leadership, productivity and technology are maximally effective when users' skills and understanding are elevated simultaneously and harmoniously, within the context of the activities in which they are applied (practical application of theory).

What We Do

KCT prescreens and prequalifies instructors, trainers and consultants to ensure the best possible match for your needs and highest-percentage achievement of outcome indicators. This process occurs only after a needs assessment and/or gap analysis is completed. Bottom line, no time is lost because the most effective combination is in place from the beginning. KCT's prequalification of trainers has become our signature procedure. It is the basis for our clients' trust in us.

Should You Use KCT?

We aren't shy about saying we work with clients who 'get it.' If you want an off-the-shelf solution – and by all means if there is one, you should use it – then you may well find what you need through other appropriate business support resources. But if you have highly specific or niche needs that are not being met or cannot be met by standard approaches, KCT will get you where you want to go faster, with a far higher return on your investment.
